Comparative Employment Law: Great Britain (GB), Northern Ireland (NI) and the Republic of Ireland (ROI)

The employment law landscape has changed considerably over the last four years and is continuing to change rapidly. Many developments over the last two years have stemmed from the Covid-19 pandemic, which has shone a light on employee wellbeing, flexibility, sustainability and shifting values.

The attached Comparative Table, prepared in conjunction with Legal Island, is intended to be a handy reference guide to the main employment law developments that have taken place in Great Britain (GB), Northern Ireland (NI) and the Republic of Ireland (ROI) over the last four years. For ease of comparison, it is split by subject area, with an index at the front. It also includes links to relevant legislation and other documents to help you understand the differences.

There has been less legislative change in NI than in GB and ROI for a number of reasons, including the lack of law-making institutions for three years and political parties failing to reach consensus on changes. This is likely to remain the case until the NI Assembly is restored following the elections in May 2022.

Taking a bird's eye view over the changes and forthcoming developments, some key themes and trends emerging for employers are set out below.

New ways of working – and working less?

The Covid-19 pandemic has accelerated changes in working practices including an increase in alternative working models and policies that focus on employee wellbeing and flexibility.

- Flexible and remote working: In GB, the long-awaited Employment Bill was notably absent from May's Queen's speech. Assuming this is simply a delay, when it does come before Parliament it is expected to include a new right to request flexible working from day one. While the proposed legal reforms are modest, they form the backdrop to discussions about "new normal" working arrangements as employers look to codify practices in the coming year. In ROI, following the Work-life Balance Directive, proposals are in place to allow parents and carers to make flexible working requests with the legislation to be established by the Autumn. Employers in ROI should also prepare for remote working requests following draft remote working legislation, which is expected to become law soon.
- Working less? Our colleague and Employment Partner, James Davies, predicts working less as being one of eight future of work predictions (in his Eight Drivers of Change report). He says "as a result of evolving values, growing awareness of the health implications of a long-hours culture and increased flexibility...average working hours will continue to decline. Many more people will look to work only part of the week and during hours that fit with their family or other commitments". Certainly, steps towards a potential four-day working week are gaining momentum across the jurisdictions with employers trialling the effectiveness of a four-day week for their organisations. This follows the Code of Practice on the Right to Disconnect that was introduced in ROI in April 2021, confirming employees' rights not to habitually work outside their normal working hours, and to "switch off" from work.

Environmental, social and governance (ESG) issues

ESG issues are emerging as a key focus for organisations across multiple sectors. Employers looking to stay on top of the ESG agenda in 2022 should factor in several potential employment law changes including:

- Whistleblowing: ROI has recently introduced legislation to transpose the EU Whistleblowing Directive into Irish domestic law. ROI already has existing whistle-blower protection but the new law will expand the protection of the protected disclosures regime. The EU Whistleblowing Directive does not apply to the UK but looks set to influence best practice. Its key feature is the requirement to provide feedback to whistleblowers within certain specified timescales.

- Modern Slavery Act: We're expecting reforms in the UK strengthening the Modern Slavery Act. The reforms will implement the plans announced in September 2020. When these are introduced, which could be this year, companies in scope of the current reporting requirements may need to pay even closer attention to their anti-slavery statements as a result. This comes at a time of growing interest in supply chain governance as part of the ESG agenda.

Ways in which we support employers with their ESG agendas are outlined here.

Diversity and inclusion

Diversity, equity and inclusion remain high on the agenda, whether as part of the “S” in ESG initiatives or separately. Diversity monitoring and positive action are key topics for many employers right now and significant developments in 2022 are likely.

- Pay transparency: In GB, detailed rules governing gender pay gap reporting are set to be reviewed in 2022. In NI the existing legislative provisions relating to gender pay gap reporting have not yet been brought into force and it's unlikely that there will be any progress until the NI Assembly is restored following the elections in May 2022. In ROI, from this year, employers (initially with 250 or more employees) will be required to publish the gender pay and bonus gap for the workforce as a whole, their views on what is causing any gap and their plans for closing it. Gaps must be calculated using 12 months' data up to June 2022, and then published by December.
- Harassment: In GB, the government has promised to introduce a new proactive duty on employers to prevent sexual harassment in the workplace and to bring back laws making employers responsible if employees are harassed by customers or other third parties. Provision could be made in the Employment Bill (assuming it is put before Parliament) for these changes. The Equality and Human Rights Commission may start consulting on its new Code of Practice on Harassment, building on the major guidance it published shortly before the Covid-19 pandemic. In GB and ROI steps are being taken to restrict the use of non-disclosure agreements as they relate to incidents of workplace sexual harassment and discrimination. The upshot could be a step change in how employers are required to manage the risks of harassment in a post #MeToo world, but much turns on the detail.

Family rights:

- Carers and working parents: By August 2022, EU member states need to have implemented the Work-life Balance Directive, which includes new baseline rights for carers and working parents. In ROI, carers already have rights, as outlined in the Comparative Table and proposals to implement the Directive are in place. The UK doesn't need to implement the directive but has already promised to match the new rights for carers. Under the GB government's proposals, working carers will be able to take up to 5 days' carers leave each year to help them carry out their caring responsibilities, although this will be unpaid. The government published some detail on how this new right will operate in September 2021 and we expect the Employment Bill (assuming it is put before Parliament) to pave the way for its introduction.
- Parental bereavement: In NI, legislation has recently been passed giving employees two weeks' leave and pay following the loss of a child under the age of 18 (the entitlement being effective from April 2022). This brings NI in line with the existing rights in GB. Following further consultation and agreement on subsequent regulations, the NI provisions are to be extended to include working parents who suffer the loss of a child through miscarriage. In ROI paid leave (maternity and paternity) upon stillbirth or miscarriage is only available after the 24th week of pregnancy. However, the Organisation of Working Time (Reproductive Health Related Leave) Bill makes provision for paid leave even if miscarriage or stillbirth occurred before the 24th week. It also provides for paid leave for the purposes of availing of reproductive healthcare such as IVF. The Bill is currently in the Seanad Third Stage and may be enacted this year.

We'll certainly continue to see interesting developments in 2022!

Reform of Written Particulars of Employment and Contract of Employment

GB

The Employment Rights (Miscellaneous Amendments) Regulations 2019

These regulations came into force on 6 April 2020 requiring employers to ensure 'workers' are issued with a written statement of particulars of employment together with associated enforcement provisions (previously this right applied only to employees).

This instrument amends the Employment Rights Act 1996 as follows:

- ▶ the written statement is a 'day 1' right for all individuals;
- ▶ the 'principal statement' of the written statement is to be provided no later than the first day of a new job; and
- ▶ there is no qualifying period of employment.

The legislation distinguishes between information which must be provided in a single document and information which can be in a supplementary statement (to which the principal statement refers).

The following information must be provided in a single document:

- ▶ Names of employer and worker;
- ▶ Date employment or engagement begins;
- ▶ For employees only: date of continuous employment;
- ▶ Rate of pay and frequency (weekly, monthly etc.) of payment;
- ▶ Hours of work (including normal working hours, days of week and whether hours/days are variable (and, if so, how they vary);
- ▶ Entitlement to holidays (including public holidays) and holiday pay;
- ▶ Any other benefits (including non-contractual benefits);
- ▶ Length of notice of termination required from employer and worker;
- ▶ Job title or brief description of work;
- ▶ If applicable: Details of non-permanent employment or engagement (e.g. period of fixed-term contract);
- ▶ Any probationary period which starts at the beginning of the engagement, including conditions and duration;
- ▶ Place of work and address of employer;
- ▶ If the worker is required to work outside the UK for over a month: arrangements for working outside the UK (including period, currency of pay, additional pay and benefits and return terms);
- ▶ Any part of any training entitlement which the employer requires the worker to complete; and
- ▶ Any training which the employer requires but does not pay for.

The following information can be provided in a separate document:

- ▶ Sick leave and pay.
- ▶ Any other paid leave.
- ▶ Pensions and pension schemes (this can be provided within 2 months).

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▶ Details of any collective agreements directly affecting terms (this can be provided within 2 months). ▶ Any other training entitlement (this can be provided within 2 months); and ▶ Disciplinary and grievance procedures (this can be provided within 2 months) https://bit.ly/3z51nCW
NI	The position in relation to the provision of a written statement of employment particulars remains the same as per Article 33 of the Employment Rights NI Order 1996 which applies to employees only and requires that a written statement is given with two months of commencement of employment. https://bit.ly/38SOi4d
ROI	The Employment (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 2018 The Employment (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 2018 (the Act) came into force on 4 March 2019 and requires employers to provide employees with a written statement of five core terms and conditions of employment within five days of starting employment and provides employees with a right to minimum payment where an employee is obliged to be available for work but is not asked to come in to work. The five core terms and conditions of employment are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▶ the full name of the employer and employee; ▶ the address of the employer; ▶ where the contract is temporary, the expected duration of employment, or the date on which the contract expires, in the case of a fixed term contract; ▶ the rate or method of calculating the employee’s pay and the pay reference period; and ▶ the number of hours the employer reasonably expects the employee to work on a normal working day and normal working week. A separate document containing this information is not required if it is already included in the statement of terms. The statement of terms required under the Terms of Employment (Information) Act 1994 must be provided within two months of commencement of employment. In addition, the Act prohibits the use of zero-hour contracts, save in limited circumstances (where either the work involved is casual in nature, the employee is essential for providing coverage in emergency situations or for short-term absences), and introduces banded working hours on a statutory basis. https://bit.ly/2WaDHye

Dismissal During Probation

GB	Employees in their probationary period would generally not have acquired the requisite 2 years length of service to bring an ordinary unfair dismissal claim. For this reason, employers may take a more relaxed approach to a formal dismissal procedure in these circumstances. However, the Acas Code of Practice on Disciplinary and Grievance Procedures (“the Code”) provides practical guidance to employers for conducting fair disciplinary processes; complying with the Code is recommended good practice in all dismissal situations. This is particularly important because there are a number of claims an employee could bring with no qualifying period, in relation to which following a fair process and compliance with the Code could be relevant considerations for an employment tribunal. Employers must also ensure that they comply with the terms of their own disciplinary procedures. https://bit.ly/31YWK27
NI	While there is no legal requirement to follow any set procedure when dismissing an employee during their probationary period, good practice suggests that employers adhere to the 3-step dismissal and disciplinary process, which involves: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ A statement in writing of what the employee is meant to have done wrong (the allegation) and what the employer is considering doing;▶ A meeting to discuss the situation and a decision; and▶ Offering the right of appeal. https://bit.ly/32aKvPJ
ROI	In 2021 the Court Of Appeal confirmed in the case of O'Donovan v Over-C Technology Limited & Over-C Limited [2021] IECA 37, that dismissal for any or no reason during probationary periods does not require the application of fair procedures to the dismissal, provided the reason for dismissal is not misconduct and contractual procedures do not require specified procedures to be followed in dismissal during probation. As a result of this case employers can feel more comfortable not affording employees on probation the benefit of fair procedures when dismissing them for any or no reason (provided that the reason for the dismissal is not based on allegations of misconduct, and they are not precluded from doing so by contract). Prior to dismissing any employee on probation, employers should review the employee's contract of employment to ensure they are contractually free to terminate for any or no reason (except for misconduct) without following any fair process in doing so. Employees who are on less than 12 months' service on probation still have the option to refer the matter to the Labour Court under section 20(1) of the Industrial Relations Act for a non-binding recommendation, regardless of their length of service. Despite the position outlined above, proceeding to terminate for any or no reason is not without risk, particularly in relation to very senior employees and employers may wish to seek advice before doing so. Directive on Transparent and Predictable Working Conditions in the European Union MEP's approved minimum rights for workers with on-demand, voucher-based or platform jobs, like Uber or Deliveroo in the Directive 2019/1152 on Transparent and Predictable Working Conditions in April 2019. A new set of minimum requirements is to be introduced which will include a limit on the duration of any probationary period. The Directive must be introduced by August 2022. https://bit.ly/2UKxQ2A

Watchdog For Labour Rights

GB	In June 2021 the government announced that a “powerful” new workers’ rights watchdog will be created to act as a “one-stop shop” for enforcement. The new body will combine the roles of the separate bodies that currently enforce the minimum wage, police modern slavery, and protect agency workers. As well as enforcing the existing powers belonging to the separate enforcement bodies, including HMRC’s scheme naming and shaming employers that fail to pay the minimum wage, the new body will extend minimum wage enforcement to workers employed through agencies or gangmasters. It will also remove the need for vulnerable workers to turn to the tribunal system to reclaim holiday or sick pay entitlements. Currently, minimum wage enforcement, the policing of modern slavery and protection of agency workers are conducted by three separate agencies – HMRC’s national minimum wage enforcement (UK-wide), the Gangmasters and Labour Abuse Authority (UK-wide) and the Employment Agency Standards Inspectorate (GB-only: The Employment Agency Inspectorate (EAI) of the Department for the Economy (DfE) is responsible for the regulation of the Northern Ireland private recruitment sector) respectively. At the time of writing, it was not clear if this new body would be UK-wide, given the devolved aspects of some of the tasks. The government is expected to use the Employment Bill to create this new body but, as this bill was not put forward in the Queen’s Speech in May 2022, this reform has yet to progress. https://bit.ly/3zmHTcV
NI	It is not clear if this new body would be UK wide. However, tax and some related matters, such as minimum wage enforcement, gangmasters and certain modern slavery provisions, are not devolved and are UK wide, which could mean that this new body will take over, for example, the HMRC function for adjudicating where statutory sick pay has not been paid.
ROI	One of the functions of the Workplace Relations Commission (WRC) established under the Workplace Relations Act 2015 is to ‘promote and encourage compliance with the relevant laws’ which includes conducting workplace inspections. The Inspection Services monitor employment conditions to ensure employers comply with employment rights legislation. The service is also responsible for enforcement of breaches. The Inspections Services tend to focus on specific sectors of construction, hospitality and Sectoral Employment Order compliance. They might also carry out inspections based on complaints from employees. They also carry out inspections and gather information in relation to other employment laws. For example, employees or interested parties may ask for an inspection in relation to the protection of young people in employment. Find out more about the inspection service here: https://bit.ly/3d2FESD

Changes to Itemised Pay Statements (pay slips)

GB	The Employment Rights Act 1996 (Itemised Pay Statement) (Amendment) Order 2018 The changes cover payslips for pay periods that begin on or after 6 April 2019. Under the new legislation, payslips must itemise the number of hours paid for where a worker is paid on an hourly rate basis. Different figures must be provided where an employee is paid a different rate of pay for different types of work. In addition, the right to a payslip is now extended to all workers, rather than just employees. The legislation can be found here: https://bit.ly/3mC5Ycb Helpful guidance can be found here: https://bit.ly/2USL7Gn
NI	The position in relation to the provision of an itemised pay statement remains the same as per Article 40 of the Employment Rights NI Order 1996 which provides employees only with a right to receive an itemised pay statement. https://bit.ly/3ngXSpQ
ROI	The right to receive an itemised pay statement is set out in Section 4 of The Payment of Wages Act 1991 which provides an entitlement for employees only to receive a written statement of their pay details. The right is set out here: https://bit.ly/3rhj9lo

Agency Workers

GB	The Agency Workers (Amendment) Regulations 2019 From 6 April 2020 amendments came into force which meant that all agency workers are entitled to receive equal pay as their permanent equivalents, once a 12-week employment period has passed, whether or not they are paid between assignments. Essentially this abolishes the use of Swedish derogation - the legal loophole which enabled employers to pay agency workers less than permanent staff. https://bit.ly/2W9Pqh3 Explanatory Memorandum to the Conduct of Employment Agencies and Employment Businesses (Amendment) Regulations 2019 On or before 30 April 2020, temporary work agencies had to provide agency workers whose existing contracts contain a Swedish derogation provision with a written statement advising that, with effect from 6 April 2020, those provisions no longer applied. https://bit.ly/3mEmUPo Conduct of Employment Agencies and Employment Businesses (Amendment) Regulations 2019 (SI 2019/725) Temporary work agencies must provide agency work-seekers with a Key Information document before agreeing the terms by which the work-seeker will undertake work. This must include information on the type of contract, the minimum expected rate of pay, how they will be paid and by whom. https://bit.ly/3zoCkuH
NI	No corresponding updates for NI similar to that of GB – the Swedish Derogation still applies as set out in Article 10 of the Agency Workers Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2011. It is unclear how much this is still employed throughout Northern Ireland and there is anecdotal evidence that, in the public sector at least, it is unlikely to be used going forward. NI Direct Guidance: https://bit.ly/3DcfCYb Agency Workers Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2011: https://bit.ly/3hdlmau
ROI	The Protection of Employees (Temporary Agency Work) Act, 2012 defines an "agency worker" as "an individual employed by an employment agency under a contract of employment by virtue of which the individual may be assigned to work for, and under the direction and supervision of, a person other than the employment agency". According to the WRC website "the Act provides that all temporary agency workers must have equal treatment with workers hired directly by the hirer in respect of pay, working time, rest periods, night work, overtime, holidays, etc". Equal treatment is a day one right (i.e. there is no 12-week qualifying period) and there is no Swedish derogation loophole. The WRC has more information on the rights of Agency Workers here: https://bit.ly/3EnpiQR The Protection of Employees (Temporary Agency Work) Act, 2012 is available here: https://bit.ly/3d8alpq

Posted Workers Directive

GB	The Posted Workers (Agency Workers) Regulations 2020 (SI 2020/384) The revised Posted Workers Directive no longer applies in GB due to the impact of Brexit and the expiry of the transition period. https://bit.ly/38fentN
NI	The Posted Workers (Agency Workers) Order (Northern Ireland) 2020 This Order came into force on 13 November 2020 by way of Statutory Rule. It modifies the Agency Workers Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2011 (the 2011 Regulations), which gives Agency Workers the right to the same basic employment and working conditions as if they had been recruited directly, if/when they complete a qualifying period of 12 weeks in the same job. The Order requires a hirer (a business supplied with an agency worker by an employment agency), which posts an agency worker to an EU Member State where the agency worker does not normally work, to notify the employment agency of the posting and the date at which the posting will commence. https://bit.ly/3kIIXCb
ROI	European Union (Posting Of Workers) (Amendment) Regulations 2020 The revised Posted Workers Directive was transposed into Irish Law on 1 October 2020 via the European Union (Posting Of Workers) (Amendment) Regulations 2020. The key changes introduced include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ the introduction of a time limit of 12 months on the period of posting, whereby a posting that goes on beyond that attracts the same rights as locally sourced workers;▶ an expansion of employment rights protections beyond what was provided in the original Directive, including access to collective agreements, where applicable;▶ provision that workers posted by “a temporary employment undertaking” or “placement agency” hold the same rights as employees in the undertaking to which they are posted. https://bit.ly/2ZB06qC

Reform Of Family Friendly, Parental & Carers Rights

The response outlines the decisions that the government has taken on what the leave entitlement will look like. It sets out key details including: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ how eligibility will be defined;▶ how the leave can be taken; and▶ what the leave can be used for. Legislation to introduce carer's leave as a day 1 statutory employment right will be brought forward when parliamentary time allows”. Carer's Leave Consultation government response: https://bit.ly/3u6KHJH
NI	From 1 April 2022 Statutory Maternity Pay (SMP), Statutory Paternity (SPP), Adoption and Shared Parental Pay is £156.66 per week. https://bit.ly/3CJi2hs The Parental Bereavement (Leave and Pay) Act 2022 The Parental Bereavement (Leave and Pay) Act (Northern Ireland) 2022 was enacted in March 2022. The Act has now been supplemented by two sets of regulations which flesh out how the new right will operate - the Parental Bereavement Leave Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2022 and the Statutory Parental Bereavement Pay (General) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2022. In summary, the legislation provides for: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ two weeks' parental bereavement leave (“PBL”) for working parents upon the death of a child aged under 18, or a stillbirth (from 24 weeks of pregnancy), irrespective of their length of service;▶ employees taking PBL being entitled to statutory parental bereavement pay (“SPBP”), paid at the lower of £156.66 per week or 90% of their normal weekly earnings, so long as they meet certain qualifying criteria. Employers will administer SPBP in the same way as existing family-related statutory payments such as maternity, adoption and paternity pay.

Carer's Leave

Rights in relation to being a carer in NI are governed by existing legislation including flexible working, time off for dependents, time off in an emergency and disability discrimination legislation.

It remains to be seen if the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland will require the Work-life Balance Directive to be implied into Northern Irish law under the non-diminution of rights principle (see ROI section for further details on this Directive).

Domestic Abuse (Safe Leave) Bill

The Northern Ireland Assembly has passed legislation that will entitle victims of domestic abuse to 10 days' paid leave each leave year. The law was passed in the Assembly's final week of sitting before the Assembly elections in May. The commencement date of the new right remains to be confirmed.

It introduces a right for victims of domestic abuse to have 10 days' paid leave per year off from work to make any necessary arrangements and provides for protection of their employment rights while absent.

ROI Parental Leave

The Parental Leave Act, 1998 (as amended by the Parental Leave (Amendment) Act 2006 and the Parental Leave (Amendment) Act 2019) entitles each parent up to 26 weeks of unpaid parental leave. The leave must be taken before the child is 12 years of age or 16 where the child is disabled. Leave is unpaid.

<https://bit.ly/3ymmQaf>

The Family Leave and Miscellaneous Provisions Act 2021 implemented changes to:

Parent's Leave and Benefit Act 2019 entitles parents of babies born (or adopted) on or after 1 November 2019 to 5 weeks (increased from 2 weeks) Parent's Leave from April 2021 and 7 weeks from July 2022. The leave is to be taken within 2 years of the birth (or adoption) of the child. This is paid by the State at the rate of €250 per week, subject to a person having the appropriate PRSI contributions.

Adoptive Leave Acts 1995 and 2005

This Act enables adoptive couples to choose which parent may avail of adoptive leave and, in doing so, rectifies an anomaly in the original legislation that left married male same-sex couples unable to avail of adoptive leave.

Paid leave upon miscarriage

Currently in Ireland, paid leave (maternity and paternity) upon stillbirth or miscarriage is only available after the 24th week of pregnancy. However, the Organisation of Working Time (Reproductive Health Related Leave) Bill makes provision for paid leave even if miscarriage or stillbirth occurred before the 24th week. It also provides for paid leave for the purposes of availing of reproductive healthcare such as IVF. The Bill is currently in the Seanad Third Stage and may be enacted this year.

Carer's Leave Act 2001

According to the WRC website “the Carer’s Leave Act 2001 provides for the entitlement of an employee to avail of unpaid leave from his/her employment to enable him/her to personally provide full-time care and attention to a person who needs such care. The minimum statutory entitlement is 13 weeks, and the maximum is 104 weeks in respect of any one care recipient”. More information on the right from the WRC:

The Work-life Balance Directive, the aim of which is to improve families’ access to family leave and flexible work arrangements, entered into force in European Union law on 1 August 2019. Member States were afforded three years to adopt the Directive. In April 2022 the drafting of a Work Life Balance and Miscellaneous Provisions Bill was approved by the Government. The key proposals include a right for employees with children up to the age of 12 (or 16 if the child has a disability or long-term illness) and employees with caring responsibilities to request flexible working arrangements for a set period of time for caring purposes, five days’ unpaid leave for medical care purposes, an extension of the period during which time can be taken out from work to breastfeed and the extension of maternity leave entitlements to transgender men.

Linda Hynes, Partner, Lewis Silkin has written an article for Legal Island explaining these key proposals, which are to be implemented by August 2022: Article

Reform Of The Public Interest Disclosure Legislation (Whistleblowing)

GB	The deadline for implementing the new EU Whistleblowing Directive was 17 December 2021, although most countries were late in complying. Provisions include additional requirements relating to confidentiality and protection of whistle-blowers, and penalties for anyone who retaliates against a whistleblower or obstructs the reporting of a disclosure. The UK is not required to implement the Directive, but it remains to be seen whether the EU will apply pressure to harmonise as part of the level playing field provisions of the UK-EU Trade and Co-operation Agreement. https://bit.ly/3yRZj07 A number of private members' bills relating to whistleblowing were introduced in recent years but failed to complete their passage through Parliament. The UK government is, however, reviewing whistleblowing protections to ensure they are fit for purposes and there is mounting pressure for reform in the future. In GB the list of Prescribed Organisations for making external public interest disclosures is set out on the Gov.uk website and is available at the link below. While there is some overlap between GB and NI there are some differences, and it is important to be aware of these. https://bit.ly/3vHIJkL
NI	Rights and responsibilities in relation to public interest disclosures are contained with The Public Interest Disclosure (Northern Ireland) Order 1998 (PIDO 1998) and Part VA of the Employment Rights NI Order 1996 (ERO 1996). PIDO 1998: https://bit.ly/3DXiBoM ERO 1996: https://bit.ly/3tq0BON In relation to the additional requirements required by the EU Whistleblowing Directive, as set in the GB section, it is unclear whether due to the NI Protocol that Northern Ireland will be required to align with the EU in this regard. EU Directive: https://bit.ly/3yRZj07 In NI the list of Prescribed Organisations for making external public interest disclosures is set out in the Public Interest Disclosure (Prescribed Persons) (Amendment) Order (Northern Ireland) 2014 which is available here: https://bit.ly/3vCquw8

Most employers with 50-249 employees will be exempt until December 2023. According to the gov.ie website, "employers and prescribed persons who receive protected disclosures will be required to acknowledge them and follow-up on the allegations made and give feedback to the reporting person within three months".

Where a person takes a case to the WRC or the courts concerning penalisation for having made a protected disclosure, the burden of proof will be reversed – it will be assumed that the alleged act of penalisation occurred because the worker made a protected disclosure unless their employer can prove otherwise.

A new Office of the Protected Disclosures Commissioner will be established in the Office of the Ombudsman to support the operation of the Act in relation to reporting to prescribed persons and Government Ministers.

ROI	On 30 March 2022 it was announced that the Sick Leave Bill 2022 was approved by Cabinet and will legislate for a statutory sick pay scheme for all employees, phased in over a four-year period. The new scheme will start with three days per year once the Bill is enacted, rising to five days in 2024, seven days in 2025, and ten days in 2026. Sick pay will be paid by employers at a rate of 70% of an employee’s wage, subject to a daily maximum threshold of €110. The daily earnings threshold of €110 is based on 2019 mean weekly earnings of €786.33 and equates to an annual salary of €40,889.16. It can be revised by ministerial order in line with inflation and changing incomes.

The rate of 70% and the daily cap are set to ensure excessive costs are not placed solely on employers, who in certain sectors may also have to deal with the cost of replacing staff who are out sick at short notice. The Bill is primarily intended to provide a minimum level of protection to low paid employees, who may have no entitlement to a company sick pay scheme. The legislation expressly states that this does not prevent employers offering better terms or unions negotiating for more through a collective agreement.

The legislation is expected to be enacted by September 2022.

GB Vento Bands

For claims presented on or after 6 April 2022, the Vento bands are as follows:

- ▶ a lower band of £990 to £9,900 (less serious cases);
- ▶ a middle band of £9,900 to £29,600 (cases that do not merit an award in the upper band); and
- ▶ an upper band of £29,600 to £49,300 (the most serious cases), with the most exceptional cases capable of exceeding £49,300.

The consultation response was published in July 2021 and the main findings of the consultation were:

- ▶ Governmental support for a new proactive duty to prevent sexual harassment and third-party harassment in the work place;
- ▶ That the government will look closely at extending the time limit for all claims under the Equality Act 2010; and
- ▶ That the government will support the EHRC to develop a new statutory code of practice, which will complement the technical guidance produced by the EHRC in January 2020.

Forstater v CGD Europe [2021]

A woman who lost her job after saying that people cannot change their biological sex has won an appeal against an employment tribunal decision. Maya Forstater, 47, did not have her contract renewed after posting tweets on gender recognition. She lost her original case in 2019, with the judge finding that her beliefs were "not worthy of respect in a democratic society", and therefore not protected by discrimination law. However, on appeal it was determined that gender critical beliefs (which many trans people and others find offensive) did meet the legal test for a philosophical belief to earn legal protection under the Equality Act 2010.

NI

In NI anti-discrimination legislation is comprised of a number of separate pieces of legislation, unlike GB where equality rights are enshrined in the Equality Act 2010. While there have been discussions that NI should also create a similar act there are currently no plans to do so. Current anti-discrimination legislation in NI:

- ▶ Equal Pay Act (NI) 1970
- ▶ Sex Discrimination (NI) Order 1976
- ▶ Race Relations (NI) Order 1997
- ▶ Disability Discrimination Act 1995
- ▶ Fair Employment and Treatment (NI) Order 1998
- ▶ Section 75 Northern Ireland Act 1998
- ▶ Employment Equality (Sexual Orientation) Regulations (NI) 2003
- ▶ Equality Act (Sexual Orientation) Regulations (NI) 2006
- ▶ Employment Equality (Age) Regulations (NI) 2006

Vento Bands

There is no equivalent to the Guidance from the President of Employment Tribunals updating the Vento bands in NI. In practice Employment Judges will often use the Vento bands as a starting point, although they are not required to do so.

For claims presented on or after 6 April 2022, the Vento bands are as follows:

- ▶ a lower band of £990 to £9,900 (less serious cases);
- ▶ a middle band of £9,900 to £29,600 (cases that do not merit an award in the upper band); and

Gender Pay Gap Reporting

The Employment Act (Northern Ireland) 2016 contains provisions relating to Gender Pay gap reporting in NI. However, the relevant provisions have not been brought into force as yet. It is likely that implementation will be taken forward in the context of the development of the new Gender Equality Strategy. However, given that there has been no consultation, or anything brought before the Assembly to date, it is not expected that any steps will be taken until Assembly business resumes.

Code of Practice on Harassment and Sexual Harassment

To mark International Women's Day in March 2022 a new Code of Practice on Sexual Harassment and Harassment at Work was published.

The code sets out how someone who considers that they are not being paid equal pay for their like work, should raise this internally at first before then proceeding, if necessary, to the Workplace Relations Commission or Courts.

Work of Equal Value

GB	Asda Stores Ltd (Appellant) v Brierley and others (Respondents) UKSC 2019/0039 The Supreme Court dismissed the appeal by Asda (from the Court of Appeal) confirming the finding of earlier courts that the Claimants, mostly females employed in the retail part of the business, can compare themselves to the predominately male workforce employed at the distribution depots. Asda appealed on the basis that this was not a valid comparison and the essential question on this appeal was whether common terms apply between the claimants' and comparator's establishments, thereby satisfying the common terms requirement in the equal pay legislation. The Supreme Court's dismissal of the appeal does not mean that the claimants' claims for equal pay will succeed. At this stage all that has been determined is that the Claimants (in the retail part of the business) can use terms and conditions of employment enjoyed by the distribution employees as a valid comparison, and can therefore pursue this matter to an Employment Tribunal. Supreme Court judgment: https://bit.ly/3h0wKaB Case review: https://bit.ly/2YqSFI2

This will be the case regardless of the offence.▶ The ‘multiple conviction rule’ no longer has effect. That rule previously required the automatic disclosure of all convictions where a person had more than one conviction, regardless of the nature of their offence or sentence. Under the new regime, convictions can be filtered from standard and enhanced DBS checks after the relevant time period has passed, even if there is more than one conviction or offence on record. Employment Vetting Arrangements

GB	England & Wales Vetting for criminal convictions in England and Wales (and Northern Ireland) is covered by Part 5 of the Protection of Freedoms Act 2012 and Sections 113A and 113B of the Police Act 1997. The Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) helps employers in England, Wales and Northern Ireland make safer recruitment decisions and prevent unsuitable people from working with vulnerable groups, including children. The DBS decides whether it is suitable for a person to be placed on or removed from a barred list. There are different levels of DBS check - basic, standard and enhanced – with different eligibility requirements for each. A standard DBS check can be requested for someone applying for certain roles (listed in the Exception Order), which include some positions of trust and / or those requiring the highest standards of professional performance. Some roles are eligible for a more detailed check – an enhanced check - for example in healthcare or childcare. According to the guidance on gov.uk “there is no official expiry date for a criminal record check issued by the DBS. Any information revealed on a DBS certificate will be accurate at the time the certificate was issued. The employer should check the ‘date of issue’ on a certificate to decide whether to request a newer one. In certain employment sectors, a new criminal record check may be required periodically”. An employer may also be required by law to carry out a fresh check of the DBS children’s and/or adults’ barring lists in accordance with sector-specific guidance. A useful link to determine which DBS check you can get for an employee in England and Wales can be found here and more detailed guidance here. Scotland In Scotland the governing legislation is the Disclosure (Scotland) Act 2020. There are different rules in relation to spent convictions in Scotland, and so a Disclosure Scotland check may reveal information that an employer in England, Wales or Northern Ireland is not entitled to. An application should be made to Disclosure Scotland.
NI	The law in NI in relation to DBS checks is the same as in England and Wales. It is governed by the Protection of Freedoms Act 2012 generally, with Northern Ireland specific provisions covered by Schedule 7. Checks are carried out via Access NI. Useful guidance can be found here.
ROI	It’s very difficult to vet employees or conduct background checks, as official vetting is only allowable in very limited circumstances. Minister for Justice, Helen McEntee announced in April 2021 that an interdepartmental group would be established with the aim of examining and making recommendations on changes to the current garda vetting system and legislation governing the process. It is anticipated that the work will take 6 months to complete, therefore it is likely that we will see the proposed changes come into operation in 2022 through the introduction of new legislation. The Garda vetting procedure is set out in the National Vetting Bureau (Children and Vulnerable Persons) Acts 2012 to 2016 (‘the Acts’) and is operated by The National Vetting Bureau of An Garda Síochána.

Under the Acts, anyone who works with or undertakes an activity, of which a necessary and regular part of it consists of having access to or contact with children or vulnerable adults, is required to be vetted. This includes staff, volunteers, and students on work placement with a relevant organisation.

As it stands, once a person is Garda vetted, they are not required to be re-vetted unless they take up a new job or position within a relevant organisation, as well as in certain other limited circumstances. One of the primary focuses of the interdepartmental group will be the introduction of a mandatory re-vetting of employees, contractors and volunteers every three years.

It will also be possible for a person's vetting certificate to be withdrawn before the expiry of the 36 months if deemed necessary, for instance if information emerged about a worker which gave reason to believe that a substantive and immediate risk was posed to children or vulnerable adults.

Aggravated Breach of Employment Rights

GB	Section 12A of the Employment Tribunals Act 1996 Where a tribunal finds that an employer has breached a worker's rights, and that the breach has aggravating features, it may decide to order a financial penalty against a respondent. Relevant factors might include the size of the employer, the duration of the breach, and the behaviour of the employer and employee. This penalty is payable to the State. This legislative change increased the maximum penalty for an aggravated breach from £5000 to £20,000, and came into force on 6 April 2019. The financial penalties regime, originally introduced in April 2014, has been of limited success. The intent, however, is that alongside illustrative guidance on its use, the increase in the maximum fine will act as a stronger deterrent and sanction against aggravated breaches of employment law. https://bit.ly/3q5RGkm
NI	No corresponding financial penalties provisions currently exist within the Industrial Tribunal (Northern Ireland) Order 1996. Reform of Working Time Legislation

GB	The Supreme Court case of Royal Mencap Society v Tomlinson-Blake; Shannon v Rampersad [2021] has settled the issue of minimum wage for ‘sleep-in shifts’, saying that workers should only be paid when they are awake and assisting, not for periods when they are sleeping. Legal Island case review: https://bit.ly/3ABiNYf Supreme Court decision: https://bit.ly/37DoyrR The Working Time Regulations 1998 is the key legislation governing matters such as rest breaks, maximum working week, minimum holiday entitlement, etc in GB. https://bit.ly/3EVx98V

Reform of Holiday Pay Calculation

GB	Section 10 Employment Rights (Employment Particulars and Paid Annual Leave) (Amendment) Regulations 2018 As of 6 April 2020, the reference period for calculating an average week's pay (for the purposes of calculating statutory holiday pay) was extended from 12 to 52 weeks (or the number of complete weeks for which the worker has been employed if less than this). This calculation method applies to workers with no normal working hours, and workers with normal working hours but whose pay varies with the amount of work done (piece workers) or according to the time / days on which it is done (shift workers). https://bit.ly/2WpW3vG Smith v Pimlico Plumbers Ltd [2022] The Court of Appeal held that a worker who had taken unpaid leave, having been told that he had no right to paid leave, but who had not invoked his right to payment until after his contract was terminated, was entitled to bring a claim in respect of all unpaid leave accrued throughout his engagement, both taken and untaken. In contrast to the EAT decision, the Court of Appeal found that the European Court of Justice's ruling in King v Sash Window Workshop (C-214/16) [2018] ICR 693 (which held that a worker is entitled to carry over annual leave which is untaken because the employer refuses to remunerate it) did have wider application to this scenario, i.e. when leave was taken but unpaid. The court also cast doubt on the EAT decision in Bear Scotland Ltd and Others v Mr David Fulton and Others: UKEATS/0047/13/BI that a series of deductions from wages is broken (and therefore not actionable) by a gap of 3 months or more between deductions. The Court of Appeal judgment is here. Since 1 July 2015 there has been a two-year "backstop" limiting the amounts that can be recovered in holiday pay claims.
NI	Chief Constable of PSNI v Agnew & Others [2021] The Court of Appeal's (CA) judgment in this claim, is contrary to the principle established by the EAT in Bear Scotland - that a series of unlawful deductions will be broken by a gap of three months or more. The CA in Agnew concluded that this principle does not correlate with Northern Irish legislation and a series of deductions is not necessarily brought to an end by a gap of three months or more between unlawful deductions. The PSNI appealed to the Supreme Court, and it was listed for June 2021, but the parties have gone to mediation, leaving the gap between NI and GB, and uncertainty for employers. A raft of other claims, which were stayed pending the outcome of Agnew, may yet set precedent. Watch this space. There is a 12-week reference period for calculating holiday pay entitlement in NI, but the Agnew case confirmed that a 12-month period was acceptable. ROI

The above cases do not apply in the Republic of Ireland. Guidance from the WRC states the following:

Calculation of holiday pay in ROI is based on an employee's normal weekly rate and holiday entitlement is based on one of the following calculations:

- ▶ 4 working weeks in a leave year in which the employee works at least 1,365 hours (unless it is a leave year in which he or she changes employment);
- ▶ 1/3 of a working week per calendar month that the employee works at least 117 hours; or
- ▶ 8% of the hours an employee works in a leave year (but subject to a maximum of 4 working weeks).

Remote, Hybrid and Flexible Working

GB	Dobson v North Cumbria Integrated Care NHS Foundation Trust [2021] This case stated that in certain circumstances a provision, criterion or practice (PCP) that requires all workers to be 'flexible' and work weekend shifts, may be indirect discrimination. The EAT, in examining the PCP (the need to work flexibly) stated that the practice did disadvantage women on the basis of their childcare responsibilities. The EAT found that the tribunal should in fact have taken "judicial notice" (meaning no evidence was required on this point) of the fact that women, because of their childcare responsibilities, were less likely to be able to accommodate certain working patterns than men. Accordingly, the appeal was allowed, and indirect discrimination was found. Case review: https://bit.ly/3zml211 Full case: https://bit.ly/2UXq6dG Flexible working reform In December 2021 the government consulted on reforming the right to request flexible working but has yet to publish the outcome of the consultation. Under the proposed reforms, employees would be able to request flexible working from day 1 (rather than waiting 6 months), the deadline for dealing with requests may be shortened and employees may be able to make requests more frequently. It is anticipated that this will be included in the Employment Bill when this is put before Parliament, although it was not mentioned in the Queen's Speech in May 2022. Scotland has announced that it is to carry out a four-day week trial. Right to Request Remote Working

Following on from this strategy, on 25 January 2022 the Tánaiste and Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment Leo Varadkar TD published details of a new law which will give employees the right to request remote working. The Right to Request Remote Working Bill 2021 will, for the first time, provide a legal framework around which requesting, approving or refusing a request for remote work can be based.

During the 2020/2021 Government introduced financial support packages for employers and employees whose employment was affected by Covid-19. This included the Employment Wage Support Scheme (EWSS) and the Pandemic Unemployment Payment (PUP).

EWSS

The scheme provides a flat-rate subsidy to qualifying employers based on the numbers of eligible employees on the employer's payroll and gross pay to employees. The EWSS replaced the Temporary Wage Subsidy Scheme (TWSS) from 1 September 2020. It is expected to continue until April 2022.

Pandemic Unemployment Payment

The PUP scheme was a social welfare payment for employees and self-employed people who have lost all their employment due to the Covid-19 public health emergency. The scheme had closed to new applicants from 8 July 2021 but re-opened for a limited time on 7 December 2021 to support people who lose their employment as a direct result of the current Covid-19 public health restrictions (end of 2021/start of 2022).

<https://bit.ly/3mpK0bw>

The PUP scheme will end on 25 March 2022 with the last payment on Tuesday, 29 March 2022. However, for some people PUP will end before this date as rates are gradually reduced - see 'Rate of payment' below. <https://bit.ly/2W9OvgL>

Section 12 of the Redundancy Payments Act 1967

During the period from March 2020 to the end of September 2021 Section 12 of the Redundancy Payments Act was suspended which prevented an employee who had been on lay-off requesting a redundancy payment from their employer. This has now ended.

<https://bit.ly/3zcMVbZ>

Employers who need to pay statutory redundancy can borrow funds for the payments from the Social Insurance Fund at favourable terms. €1,860 is also available to workers made redundant who have lost reckonable service while in receipt of the PUP or another jobseekers payment over the pandemic.

In April 2022 it was announced that those that were made redundant to protect public health during the pandemic are entitled to a special payment of up to €2,268 tax-free to bridge the gap in their redundancy entitlements.

The scheme is now open for applications and will operate alongside the existing Redundancy and Insolvency schemes currently administered by the Department of Social Protection. Further information on the payment is available at www.gov.ie/crlp

Reform of Right to Work Checks

GB	Covid-19 Right to Work Check Concessions Due to logistical issues arising due to the Covid-19 pandemic, from 30 March 2020 the UK government instituted adjusted measures for manual right to work checks. These are due end after 30 September 2022. Under the adjusted arrangements, individuals who are allowed to verify their right to work using hard-copy documents may send scanned or photo versions of their documents to the employer for checking, rather than the employer having to review the originals. It is not necessary for the employer to carry out a retrospective check once the adjusted process ends. If using the adjusted manual process, it is still necessary for the employer to review the copies with the individual being present, either in person or by live video call. For further information, see https://bit.ly/2XWktxf. Employers must otherwise continue to check hard-copy documents in the way set out in right to work checks: an employer’s guide. Individuals with limited or indefinite immigration permission in the UK should use the Home Office online right to work service. Since 6 April 2022, employers of those who hold a Biometric Residence Permit, Biometric Residence Card and Frontier Worker Permit must use the online service in all cases. Since 6 April 2022, digital identity document validation technology (IDVT) has been made available to check the right to work of those who hold a valid British or Irish passport (including an Irish passport card). The first certified provider of this service was approved on 6 June 2022.
NI	Covid-19 Right to Work Check Concessions Immigration is not a devolved matter and so NI mirrors the rules in GB in this regard.
ROI	It is a criminal offence in Ireland to (i) employ someone who doesn’t have permission to work in the State and (ii) enter employment in the State without permission to work. Irish legislation is not prescriptive about what specific right to work checks need to be undertaken. Employers just have to take “reasonable steps” to ensure employees are not working illegally. This is advisable as penalties for breaching this Irish legislation are potentially severe. Employment Permits In general, in order to work in Ireland a non-EEA national, unless they are exempted, must hold a valid employment permit. The employment permits scheme is administered by the Dept of Enterprise, Trade and Employment. pre legislative scheme of the bill undergoes ongoing scrutiny by the Joint Committee on Enterprise, Trade and Employment with unions and employers.

Other permission to work

Depending on an individual's personal circumstances, a non-EEA national may be granted permission to work in Ireland without requiring an employment permit. An individual's Irish Residence Permit card, which confirms their immigration permission has been registered with the Department of Justice's Immigration Service Delivery, will evidence what immigration permission an individual has been granted.

Additionally, an individual may have been granted permission to work in Ireland on a temporary short term basis and will have received a Stamp on their passport which evidences their permission to work in Ireland.

There was a temporary extension of immigration permissions to 31 May 2022. This extension granted individuals who held valid permission to be in Ireland in March 2020 permission to remain until 31 May 2022, even if their Irish Residence Permit card (IRP card) had expired and they are awaiting or applying for a new permission. Currently, if an individual's IRP card has expired and they have been unable to renew their immigration permission by 31 May 2022, they are still legally permitted to remain in the State provided they show proof that they have applied to renew their registration and are waiting for it to be processed. This is due to large volume of applications still being handled by the Department of Justice which has published a notice for employers. Renewal is on the same basis as their existing permission and the same conditions attaching to their existing immigration permission will continue to apply.

This temporary extension does not apply to employment permits.

Employment Status/Gig Zero Hours Contracts

GB Uber v Aslam & others [2021] UKSC 5

This long-running case is relevant to many workers in the gig economy and not just taxi drivers.

The Supreme Court held that Uber drivers are workers, due to the degree of subordination and control to which they are subjected. The Supreme Court thought that businesses should not be able to use their written contracts to determine who qualifies for statutory protections and that the question must be one of 'statutory interpretation, not contractual interpretation'. The Supreme Court considered the fact that the drivers were tightly controlled by Uber: they had little or no ability to improve their economic position through professional or entrepreneurial skill. In practice the only way in which drivers could increase their earnings was by working longer hours while constantly meeting Uber's measures of performance.

Addison Lee Ltd v Lange [2021]

This is a very similar case to Uber above with the exception that there was a contractual clause which mitigated against the recognition of worker status. However, the Court of Appeal made it clear that it was the interpretation of statute to the factual situation that the court was concerned with rather than the terms of any contract between the two parties. As a result, it reinforces the extent to which the classification of employment is one that rests on the reality of the situation rather than any contractual term that was agreed between the parties.

Independent Workers Union of Great Britain v Central Arbitration Committee & Rooffoods Ltd t/a Deliveroo [2021] EWCA Civ 952

This case demonstrates the inter-relationship between employment status and the protection that is afforded by virtue of Trade Union protection within Article 11 of the ECHR. To this end, the Court of Appeal has made it clear that the rights are not available to "absolutely everyone", but rather they are constrained to those who are in employment relationships. On this point, the court reiterated the importance of personal service when considering the question of worker status. Helpfully, the case demonstrated that domestic law aligns with the international definitions that have arisen for worker status. On a practical point, it does lead to some curtailment of where Trade Union rights can arise. It will be interesting to see how this develops and whether a distinction continues between Uber drivers and Deliveroo riders.

National Union of Professional Foster Carers v The Certification Officer [2021] EWCA Civ 548

This appeal arose from the respondent's refusal to register the appellant Trade Union as an organisation on the list of Trade Unions. The reason for the refusal was that the members of the Trade Union, namely foster carers, were not wholly or mainly workers within the meaning of Section 1 of the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992.

	The Court of Appeal went through the features of interference into Article 11 but the important feature from a strictly employment perspective was that the Court of Appeal declared that, for the purpose of Section 1 of the 1992 Act, the definition of worker was to be extended to those provider services under a foster care agreement. This would have the effect that the respondent would be 'very likely' to be obliged to enter the Union onto the maintained list. This follows the Scottish case of Glasgow City Council v Johnstone in demonstrating greater recognition for foster carers in an employment sense. The difficulty that does arise with foster carers which may come down the line is the nature of the work; it is generally seen as a vocation which applies 24/7 and the fee is payable as a result of the commitment that has to be made. It must be asked how far the rights then apply and whether there needs to be minimum wage on a 24/7 basis as well as other rights that may then apply. The decision to find worker status may in fact lead to more questions than answers. Full Court of Appeal judgment: https://bit.ly/3yGaYPx Case review: https://bit.ly/3kRvhoj Exclusivity clauses The GB Small Business, Enterprise and Employment Act 2015 received Royal Assent on 25 March 2015 and included a commitment to remove 'exclusivity' clauses in zero hours contracts on a day appointed by a Minister of the Crown. http://bit.ly/1a980Yg A press release from gov.uk states that "Britain's lowest paid workers will be given the flexibility to boost their income through extra work, under new plans set out by the government on 9 May 2022. The proposals will widen the ban on exclusivity clauses, which restrict staff from working for multiple employers, to contracts where the guaranteed weekly income is on or below the Lower Earnings Limit of £123 a week. ROI	The Employment (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 2018

The Employment (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 2018 (the Act) came into force on 4 March 2019 and requires employers to provide employees with a written statement of five core terms and conditions of employment within five days of starting employment and provides employees with a right to minimum payment where an employee is obliged to be available for work but is not asked to come in to work. The five core terms and conditions of employment are:

- ▶ the full name of the employer and employee;
- ▶ the address of the employer;
- ▶ where the contract is temporary, the expected duration of employment, or the date on which the contract expires, in the case of a fixed term contract;
- ▶ the rate or method of calculating the employee's pay and the pay reference period; and
- ▶ the number of hours the employer reasonably expects the employee to work on a normal working day and normal working week.

A separate document containing this information is not required if it is already included in the statement of terms. The statement of terms required under the Terms of Employment (Information) Act 1994 must be provided within two months of commencement of employment.

In addition, the Act prohibits the use of zero-hour contracts, save in limited circumstances (where either the work involved is casual in nature, the employee is essential for providing coverage in emergency situations or for short-term absences), and introduces banded working hours on a statutory basis.

Attempts to improve the correct classification of employees as self-employed or independent contractors have resulted in 3 private members bills:

- ▶ The Protection of Employment \(Measures to Counter False Self-Employment\) Bill 2018
- ▶ The Prohibition of Bogus Self Employment Bill 2019
- ▶ The Organisation of Working Time \(Workers Rights and Bogus Self-Employment\) \(Amendment\) Bill 2019

These Bills have lapsed or been withdrawn. However, the Code of Practice on Determining Employment Status was updated in July 2021 to take account of newer business models and forms of work, e.g. gig economy. The Code however retains the historic distinction between 'employed' and 'self employed' without catering for contractual arrangements on either side of this distinction.

Directive on Transparent and Predictable Working Conditions in the European Union

MEP's approved minimum rights for workers with on-demand, voucher-based or platform jobs, like Uber or Deliveroo in the Directive 2019/1152 on Transparent and Predictable Working Conditions in April 2019. The Directive proposes more predictable hours and compensation for cancelled work, and an end to "abusive practices" around casual contracts and a reduction in lengthy probationary periods. The Directive must be introduced by August 2022.

A new set of minimum requirements to be introduced include:

- ▶ A limit to the duration of any probationary period;
- ▶ A general rule that a worker cannot be prevented from taking up work with another employer outside the work schedule;

- ▶ Rights to greater predictability of working time and reasonable advance notice for those on variable work schedules;
- ▶ A possibility to request a transition to a more predictable and secure form of employment; and
- ▶ A right to mandatory training without cost.

Two out of the three Court of Appeal judges reached the conclusion that there was no mutuality of obligation in the contractual arrangements between Karshan and the drivers.

Off-payroll working rules / IR35 Reforms for Private Sector

GB	IR35 is a tax-avoidance rule designed to combat “disguised employment” in situations where an individual contractor is providing their labour to an end user via their own intermediary (often their own company, known as a personal services company). From 6 April 2021, medium and large private organisations, and public sector organisations, must decide whether the IR35 tax rules apply to an engagement with individuals who work through their own company. These organisations, referred to here as the “end user”, must assess whether the contractor is employed or self employed for tax purposes by undertaking a Status Determination Assessment (“SDS”). The SDS must be provided to the contractor before the first payment to them. If there is an agency in the chain, it must also be provided to the agency. Where the SDS indicates that that IR35 rules do apply, the organisation, agency, or other third party paying the worker’s company will need to deduct income tax and employee NICs and pay employer NICs. The end user must provide the SDS to the contractor regardless of whether the determination shows that IR35 will apply or not. The end user must also provide reasons for its determination. A status determination statement issued before 6 April 2021 is valid under the new rules. If the working practices of the engagement change or the end user negotiates a new contract with the worker, the end user must re-check the rules to see if they still apply. A worker or the agency paying the worker’s intermediary may disagree with the employment status determination reached by the end user, and the end user must have a dispute resolution procedure to enable this challenge. In this scenario, the end user must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▶ consider the reasons for disagreeing given by the worker or agency paying their intermediary; ▶ decide whether to maintain the determination and give reasons why, or withdraw the determination because it is accepted that was wrong; and ▶ keep a record of the determinations and the reasons for it. The end user must provide a response within 45 days of receiving the representations from the contractor or fee payer. During this time the end user should continue to apply the rules in line with its original determination. If the end user does respond within 45 days, the responsibility for paying tax and National Insurance contributions will become its responsibility. Helpful guidance is provided here: https://bit.ly/3mDyzhy And here: https://bit.ly/3ynswj6

Termination Payments - Tax and National Insurance Contributions (NIC)

GB	The measure had effect from 6 April 2018. A policy paper from gov.uk says “An employer is required to pay NICs on any part of a termination payment that exceeds the £30,000 threshold. In addition, all payments in lieu of notice (PILONs) will be both taxable and subject to Class 1 NICs. The legislation requires the employer to identify the amount of basic pay that the employee would have received if they had worked their notice period, even if the employee leaves the employment part way through their notice period. The amount will be treated as earnings and will not be subject to the £30,000 Income Tax exemption. All other termination payments will be included within the scope of the £30,000 termination payments exemption”. https://bit.ly/3mAqM43
NI	This rule also applies in NI as well as GB.
ROI	Payments on termination of an office or employment or removal from an office or employment are dealt with under section 123 Taxes Consolidation Act 1997 (TCA 1997). Certain exemptions are available, but the basic position is that an employee is entitled to tax relief for €10,160 plus €765 for each complete year your employee has worked for you of any lump sum payment. Employees who have not received a termination payment in the previous ten years may be entitled to the Increased Basic Exemption (€10k). However, there are alternative calculations such as the SCSB (Standard Capital Superannuation Benefit) which is more beneficial for some longer serving and higher level employees who receive termination payments. Collective Bargaining Rights

GB	Employers are prohibited from inducing workers to opt out of collective bargaining arrangements under s145B of the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992. In October 2021 the Supreme Court ruled in Kostal UK Ltd v Dunkley & ors, that Kostal had breached s145B of the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992, which prohibits employers from inducing workers to opt out of collective bargaining, when it made a one-off pay offer to employees while the collective bargaining process was still ongoing. However, the Supreme Court in this case confirmed that trade unions do not have a veto over employers making direct offers to members to change their terms and conditions of employment. Employers must, however, follow and exhaust the collective bargaining process with their recognised union before making a direct offer with a view to resolving an impasse. Supreme Court Judgement: https://bit.ly/3Fh0kmk
NI	While collective bargaining arrangements are dealt with under a different legislative regime in NI than in GB the Supreme Court Judgement in Kostal UK Ltd v Dunkley & ors will also apply in NI. Collective Redundancy and Insolvency

GB	Under s.188 of the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 an employer is obliged to consult with employee representatives in advance of any collective redundancy situation for a minimum of 30 days (before any termination takes effect) where 20 to 99 redundancies are contemplated and the consultation must start at least 45 days before any dismissals take effect where 100 plus redundancies are contemplated. s.188(7) provides for an exemption to the above consultation requirements where there are special circumstances which render it not reasonably practicable for the employer to comply. Insolvency might come under the definition of such special circumstances, however in Carillion Services Ltd (in Liquidation) v Benson [2021] the EAT held that an insolvency that arose after a steady decline for a series of months as a result of mismanagement and the company holding out for a government bailout, which had never been promised and was never delivered – did not constitute a ‘special circumstance’. https://bit.ly/3ebrM9s
NI	In NI, collective redundancy consultation is set out in article 216 of the Employment Rights (Northern Ireland) Order 1996 and employers are required to consult with employee representatives in advance of any collective redundancy situation for a minimum of 30 days (before any termination takes effect) where 20 to 99 redundancies are contemplated and the consultation must start at least 90 days before any dismissals take effect where 100 plus redundancies are contemplated. Article 216(9) of the Employment Rights NI Order 1996 provides for a ‘special circumstances’ defence where an employer was unable to comply with these consultation requirements.
ROI	Collective redundancies are governed by the Protection of Employment Act 1977, together with a number of statutory instruments. The legislation requires consultation to be “initiated at the earliest opportunity and in any event at least 30 days before the first notice of dismissal is given”. The Department of Enterprise, Trade and Employment has proposed a new Action Plan to boost the rights of employees faced with redundancy caused by insolvency and to ensure transparency for employees in insolvency situations. As it stands, if the number of redundancies in any 30-day period exceeds the thresholds in the Act, then collective consultation must be initiated, and notice of dismissal cannot be given within the statutory 30-day period. Statutory notices must also be provided to various parties. This notice period does not however apply where collective redundancies are triggered by insolvency due to an exemption in Section 14 (3) of the Protection of Employment Act 1977. The Government has announced plans to remove that exemption. According to the Action Plan, the new procedure will mean that where a redundancy arises due to a company’s insolvency, an employee may be placed on temporary lay-off by the company liquidator for the duration of the 30-day notification period, the employment termination date to coincide with the expiry of the statutory 30-day period. In that event, an employee would be eligible to claim a Jobseeker’s Payment during that period due to their being placed on temporary lay-off. https://bit.ly/3mjMg4g In advance of the Action Plan, an information handbook entitled - Rights and Remedies available to Employees Facing a Collective Redundancy Situation has been published. Publication of this information handbook fulfils one of the key commitments in the Plan of Action on Collective Redundancies following Insolvency, which sets out Government’s work to enhance protections and ensure greater transparency for employees in insolvency situations.

Tips and Gratuities

GB	Following a consultation in 2016 regarding tips and gratuities, the Government has indicated in the consultation response that they will bring forward measures to ensure tips, gratuities and service charges go to workers in full as part of an upcoming Employment Bill. As with other employment reforms, this was absent from the Queen’s Speech in May 2022 but could still be implemented in the future. These legislative measures will include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ Requirements for employers in all sectors to not make any deductions from tips received by their staff, including admin charges, other than those required by tax law.▶ Requirements for employers to distribute tips in a way that is fair and transparent, with a written policy on tips, and a record of how tips have been dealt with. Employers will be able to distribute tips via a tronc, and a tip must be dealt with no later than the end of the month following the month in which it was paid by the customer.▶ Provisions to allow workers to make a request for information relating to an employer’s tipping record. Employers will have flexibility on how to design and communicate a tipping record, but should respond within four weeks.▶ Requirements for employers to have regard to a statutory Code of Practice on Tipping.▶ Where employers fail to comply with these measures, claims may be brought to an Employment Tribunal. The consultation response is available here: https://bit.ly/3D7WPgR
NI	It is unclear whether the measures described above will be standalone legislation or will require amendment to existing legislation. If it is introduced by way of an amendment to the Employment Rights Act 1996, for example, it will apply to GB only. If it is by way of amendment to National Minimum Wage Regulations or the income tax regime, these are not devolved matters and therefore any amendments would also apply to NI.

The Automatic Enrolment (Earnings Trigger and Qualifying Earnings Band) Order (Northern Ireland) 2021

This Order, which corresponds to an Order (S.I. 2021/314) made by the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions under sections 14(2) and 15A(1) of the Pensions Act 2008, substitutes the amounts of the automatic enrolment and re-enrolment qualifying earnings band and specifies rounded figures for certain pay reference periods.

For the purposes of the Pensions (No. 2) Act (Northern Ireland) 2008 (“the Act”), a jobholder who earns qualifying earnings of a specified amount is automatically enrolled or, as the case may be, re-enrolled into a pension scheme. The figures which “trigger” automatic enrolment or re-enrolment for pay reference periods other than 12 months can be found in Article 3 of this Order. Once in the scheme, the pension contributions of such a jobholder are calculated by reference to qualifying earnings.

Section 13 of the Act provides that a person’s qualifying earnings are earnings of more than the amount specified in subsection (1)(a) of that section, but not more than the amount specified in subsection (1)(b) of that section. Article 2 of this Order increases the amount referred to in section 13(1)(b).

The amounts specified in sections 3(1)(c), 5(1)(c) and 13(1) of the Act are in relation to a pay reference period of 12 months. Sections 3(6B), 5(7B) and 13(2) of the Act provide respectively that where a pay reference period is less or more than 12 months, the amounts specified in sections 3(1)(c), 5(1)(c) and 13(1) apply as if they were proportionately less or more. Article 3 of this Order provides rounded figures in respect of specified pay reference periods other than 12 months for the purposes of sections 3(6B), 5(7B) and 13(2). Rounding caters for different types of workers and for pay periods other than 12 months used by employers and enables the pay reference period to be tailored to their specific circumstances.

The Occupational and Personal Pension Schemes (General Levy) (Amendment) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2021

These Regulations give effect to a new structure, and to new rates, that will be used to calculate the general levy payable by occupational pension schemes and personal pension schemes. The general levy is payable by eligible pension schemes and the amount payable is calculated on a sliding scale depending on the numbers of scheme members. It is collected annually by the Pensions Regulator on behalf of the Department and the Department for Work and Pensions. It recovers the core running costs of the Pensions Regulator, the Pensions Ombudsman and, for example, the pensions guidance function of the Money and Pensions Service. The general levy rates were last increased in 2008-2009. The rates were then reduced by 13% in 2012-2013 and have remained at the same level for most pension schemes since then.

The general levy rates have not been increased in line with movements in inflation, but are reviewed annually to ensure that an appropriate amount is being raised by the levy to meet the costs that are being incurred.

These Regulations help to achieve this by introducing changes to the structure and rates of the general levy on occupational and personal pension schemes from April 2021, 2022 and 2023.

The qualification age for drawing a State pension increased from 65 to 66 years of age in January 2014. It was set to be further increased to 67 years of age in January 2021, but the Irish Government has deferred such increase and the Pensions Commission was established to consider changes to the State pension age, among other issues. The Pensions Commission intends to report to the Government by 30 June 2021.

The Roadmap for Pensions Reform 2018-2023 included plans to bring in an automatic enrolment savings scheme by 2022.

In April 2022 the details of the ‘design principles’ for the Automatic Enrolment Retirement Savings System for Ireland were announced. Under Auto Enrolment employees will have access to a workplace pension savings scheme which is co-funded by their employer and the State. A key feature of the system is that although participation is voluntary, so that people don’t have to participate, it operates on an ‘opt-out’ rather than an ‘opt-in’ basis.

In order to encourage workers to participate, those people who choose to remain in the system will have their pension savings matched on a one-for-one basis by the employer. The State will also provide a top-up of €1 for every €3 saved by the worker. This means that for every €3 saved by the employee, a further €4 will be invested by the employer and the State combined.

All employees not already in an occupational pension scheme, aged between 23 and 60 and earning over €20,000 across all of their employments, will be automatically enrolled with the system set up by 2023 for employee enrolments in 2024, the introduction of Auto Enrolment will be very gradually phased in over a decade, with both employer and employee contributions starting at 1.5%, and increasing every three years by 1.5% until they eventually reach 6% by Year 10 (2034). This steady phasing allows time for both employers and employees to adjust to the new system.

Further details to follow.

Reform of the Law on Transfers of Undertakings (TUPE)

GB	The 2006 TUPE Regulations were amended by the Collective Redundancies and Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) (Amendment) Regulations 2014, which came into force on 31 January 2014. The 2014 Regulations introduced: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▶ A clarification on the face of the Regulations regarding the test for service provision changes: the activities carried out after the change in provider must be fundamentally the same as those carried out by the person who has ceased to carry them out before it; ▶ Amendments to the provisions which give protection against dismissal and restrict changes to contracts: these protections will apply where the sole or principal reason for the dismissal or variation of employment contract is the transfer. Those protections will not apply in certain circumstances where the sole or principal reason for the dismissal or variation is a economic, technical or organisational reason entailing changes in the workforce; ▶ Amendments so that a change to the place where employees are employed can be within 'changes in the workforce'. This is relevant to the dismissal protection and the protection against variations of contracts; ▶ Exceptions to the general restriction on varying contracts of employment: terms incorporated from collective agreements can be varied when more than a year has passed since the transfer, provided that overall, the contract is no less favourable to the employee; and employers can make changes permitted by the terms of the contract. In both cases, this is subject to the general rules regarding effective variation of a contract; ▶ A provision so that in some circumstances, rights to terms and conditions provided for in collective agreements entered into after the date of the transfer are not transferred; ▶ A provision allowing micro businesses to inform and consult employees directly when there are no existing appropriate representatives; ▶ The deadline by which the transferor must supply the employee liability information to the transferee increased from not less than 14 days before the transfer to not less than 28 days before the transfer; and ▶ An amendment to the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 so that a transferee may elect to consult (or start to consult) representatives of transferring staff about proposed collective redundancies prior to the transfer (to meet the requirements for such consultation under that Act). The transferor must agree to such consultation. https://bit.ly/3Dgs8Gm Guidance on the changes is available here: https://bit.ly/3Fg29R0.
NI	The amendments to the 2006 TUPE regulations apply only to GB and do not extend to NI. In NI the Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) Regulations 2006 apply UK wide with the exception of the part dealing with Service Provision Changes. In NI separate regulations, the Service Provision Change (Protection of Employment) Regulations (NI) 2006 deal with such matters. Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) Regulations 2006: https://bit.ly/3l9wgSb Service Provision Change Regulations: https://bit.ly/3muJNTX
ROI	There are no corresponding amendments to the TUPE regime in the Republic of Ireland. The legislation governing this complex area is known as the European Communities (Protection of Employees on Transfer of Undertakings) Regulations 2003. The TUPE Regulations in ROI do not automatically apply on a service provision change. Whether TUPE applies in this type of a situation is a matter for interpretation by the WRC and is very fact/situation specific.

Reform of Information & Consultation of Employees (ICE) Regulations

GB	As of 6 April 2020, the threshold to request an information and consultation agreement under the ICE Regulations was lowered by the Employment Rights (Miscellaneous Amendments) Regulations 2019 (SI 2019/731) to 2% down from 10%. https://bit.ly/3sPsl9J .
NI	No corresponding updates in NI – the position regarding information and consultation remains the same as per Article 7 of the Information and Consultation of Employees Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2005 . https://bit.ly/3tlydgQ .
ROI	The relevant legislation in ROI, the Employees (Provision of Information and Consultation) Act 2006 has not been amended and the threshold to request an information and consultation agreement remains at the lesser of 10% of employees, or 100 employees. https://bit.ly/3qeTxmW .

Section 3: Tribunal & Other Legal & Dispute Resolution Processes

Tribunal and Dispute Resolution Reform

GB	Tribunal Reform 2020 The Employment Tribunals (Constitution and Rules of Procedure) (Early Conciliation: Exemptions and Rules of Procedure) (Amendment) Regulations 2020 SI 2020/1003 (the 2020 Rules) were laid before Parliament on 17 September 2020 and amend the ET Regulations, ET Rules and also the Early Conciliation (EC) rules set out in Schedule 1 to the Employment Tribunals (Early Conciliation: Exemptions and Rules of Procedure) Regulations 2014 SI 2014/254. The majority of the changes came into force on 8 October 2020 and include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ The deployment of non-employment judges into employment tribunals if certain criteria on suitability are met;▶ The employment of legal officers to carry out some tasks currently performed by employment judges, i.e. uncontentious case management decisions such as considering acceptance or rejection of claim forms and giving permission to amend claims and responses when both parties consent; and▶ Increase of the timescale for early conciliation to allow a standard six-week early conciliation process in all cases, rather than a default one month with a possible extension of a further two weeks. https://bit.ly/3iTt6jW Road Map for Tribunal Reform A new 'road map' for employment tribunal proceedings in 2021 and 2022 has been published by the Presidents of the Employment Tribunals in England, Wales and Scotland. Reforms include, for example, the use of video hearings in certain preliminary, interim and short track claims being the default position and the recruitment of additional Legal Officers who will become more involved in case progression work. https://bit.ly/3sbHhEu New Guidance Issued on Taking Evidence from Persons Located Abroad The Presidents of the Employment Tribunals in England and Wales and in Scotland have issued Presidential Guidance on taking evidence from persons located abroad. From 27 April 2022, any party wishing to call a witness to give remote evidence by telephone or video from a foreign jurisdiction must notify the employment tribunal so that steps can be taken to obtain permission from the country in question (via the Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office's Taking of Evidence Unit). Access the guidance here: https://bit.ly/3z10VZk
NI	The Industrial Tribunals and Fair Employment Tribunal (Constitution and Rules of Procedure) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2020 (the 2020 Regulations) These Regulations and Rules of Procedure establish requirements in relation to proceedings before Industrial Tribunals (ITs) and the Fair Employment Tribunal (FET).

	They revoke and replace earlier regulations and rules which separately dealt with these tribunals. The 2020 Regulations provide a revised and consolidated text for the rules and procedures of the industrial tribunals and the Fair Employment Tribunal while simplifying language and structure, being consistent with better regulation principles. The 2020 Regulations also take account of the introduction of early conciliation; in particular setting out the implications arising from the adherence, or non-adherence, to the requirements of early conciliation. https://bit.ly/3sMPdfu During the pandemic OITFET employed the use of video hearings to enable hearings to take place remotely. However, there is no equivalent in NI to the GB Roadmap for tribunal reform as described above. In addition, the role of the Legal Officer has not been employed by OITFET in NI. The current position on remote and hybrid hearings in NI can be found here: https://bit.ly/3mNXZht
ROI	Labour Court Rules 2020 On 30 March 2020, the Labour Court revoked the Labour Court Rules 2019 and replaced them with the Labour Court Rules 2020. The new rules simplify the process of appealing a decision and in particular facilitate the electronic submission of appeal forms to appeals@labourcourt.ie. The Labour Court also has also introduced a new Employment Rights Appeal Form and a S13(9) Appeal Form. https://bit.ly/3svLToT Workplace Relations (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 2021 Came into effect on 29 July 2021. The Act amends aspects of WRC procedures arising from concerns identified by the Supreme Court in Zalewski -v- Adjudication Officer & Ors. It amends the Workplace Relations Act 2015 to allow for public hearings, publication of the names of parties in its determinations, as well as a provision for evidence to be taken on oath or affirmation. https://bit.ly/3fxZHdx WRC Postponement Process Guidelines – July 2021 On 1 July 2021 the WRC issued new postponement guidelines to update and replace the previous version. Applications for postponements, together with supporting documentation, should be sent to: postponements@workplacerelements.ie Postponement policy: https://bit.ly/3ASHlfo The Industrial Relations (Amendment) Act 2019 This act effective from 7 July 2019 facilitates access to the WRC and the Labour Court by members of the garda force to assist in the resolution of industrial disputes. https://bit.ly/3sFmaun In the case of Minister for Justice and Equality and The Commissioner of the Garda Síochána v Workplace Relations Commission Case C-378/1 (the ‘Boyle’ Case) the CJEU determined (4 December 2018) that the WRC Adjudication Service can disapply a rule of national law that is contrary to EU law. https://bit.ly/3AX7j1n

The primacy of EU derived rights was reaffirmed in the case of Barbara Geraghty v The Office of the Revenue Commissioners [2021] in which an Adjudication Officer disapplied the Civil Service Regulations Act 1956 in favour of the EU equality rights.

Early Conciliation – Referral To ACAS/LRA For Conciliation Before Claim Can Be Made to Tribunal Or Other Forum

GB	Early Conciliation has been provided by ACAS in GB since 2014 and was introduced via an amendment to the Employment Tribunals Act 1996. The relevant section is Section 18A. https://bit.ly/3umUtqW
NI	From 27 January 2020 anyone who wishes to lodge a claim with the Industrial or Fair Employment Tribunal must first notify the Labour Relations Agency (LRA) and discuss the option of early conciliation. Most potential claimants will not be able to proceed to tribunal without at least considering this option. This brings NI into line with GB who have had a similar system, operated by ACAS, since 2014. The Employment Act (Northern Ireland) 2016 (Commencement No. 3) Order (Northern Ireland) 2020 This Order brought into operation certain provisions of the Employment Act (Northern Ireland) 2016 on 27th January 2020: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ Article 2(a) to (e) commence provisions on early conciliation of employment disputes;▶ Article 2(f) commences the provision which places an obligation on the Department to review early conciliation;▶ Article 2(g) and (h) commences the provisions that permits the Department to make regulations which provide that the members of the panel of chairmen of industrial tribunals and Fair Employment Tribunal may be referred to as employment judges;▶ Article 2(i) commences the provision which prohibits the Labour Relations Agency, or persons appointed by the Agency, from releasing information relating to a worker, employer of a worker, or a trade union, that they hold in the course of performing their functions;▶ Article 2(j) corrects a small number of references in the Social Security Contributions and Benefits (Northern Ireland) Act 1992, dealing with statutory shared parental pay, which were introduced by the Work and Families Act (Northern Ireland) 2015;▶ Article 2(k) updates legislative references in Schedules 2 and 4 to the Employment (Northern Ireland) Order 2003;▶ Article 2(l) and (o) gives effect to the dispute resolution repeals in Schedule 3 of the Act; and▶ Article 2(m) and (n) gives effect to Schedules 1 and 2, which respectively, make minor and consequential amendments to existing legislation, and set out how the relevant time limits for bringing a claim will be extended where necessary to provide sufficient time for early conciliation to take place and to ensure that the claimant is not disadvantaged. Link to legislation: https://bit.ly/3Bi0abU Link to LRA: https://bit.ly/3ABvjgH The Industrial Tribunals (1996 Order) (Application of Conciliation Provisions) Order (Northern Ireland) 2020

	This Order amended Article 20(1) of the Industrial Tribunals (Northern Ireland) Order 1996. Article 20(1) lists the proceedings which are “relevant proceedings” for the purposes of Early Conciliation and other conciliation services provided by the Labour Relations Agency. The amendments made by this Order update the list of jurisdictions in Article 20(1). https://bit.ly/3sT1FdJ The Industrial Tribunals and Fair Employment Tribunal (Early Conciliation: Exemptions and Rules of Procedure) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 2020 The Employment Act (Northern Ireland) 2016 amended the Industrial Tribunals (Northern Ireland) Order 1996 and the Fair Employment and Treatment (Northern Ireland) Order 1998 to introduce a requirement for prospective claimants to contact the Labour Relations Agency before they are able to present a claim to an Industrial Tribunal or the Fair Employment Tribunal. This requirement applies to claims which are relevant proceedings under Article 20(1) of the Industrial Tribunals Order or Article 38 of the Fair Employment and Treatment Order. Regulation 3 sets out the circumstances in which a claimant may present a claim dealing with relevant proceedings without complying with the requirement for early conciliation as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▶ regulation 3(1)(a) relates to claimants who are presenting a claim on the same claim form as other claimants or joining a claim which has already been presented to an industrial tribunal or the Fair Employment Tribunal by another claimant (so called ‘multiples’); in such circumstances, a claimant may rely upon the fact that another claimant has complied with the requirement for early conciliation and has a certificate from the Agency; and ▶ regulation 3(1)(b) means that if a claim for relevant proceedings appears on the same claim form as proceedings which are not relevant proceedings, there is no need for a claimant to satisfy the early conciliation requirement in relation to those relevant proceedings. https://bit.ly/3gAA105
ROI	Early conciliation does not apply in the Republic of Ireland. The WRC provides a mediation service in complaints to the Adjudication Service. https://bit.ly/3ecjXjL The WRC also provides a conciliation service to assist parties to resolve employment disputes. Typical examples of the types of issue dealt with in the conciliation process include claims for improvements in pay or conditions of employment, disciplinary cases, grading issues, disputes arising from proposed changes to the way work is done, company restructuring etc. https://bit.ly/3FdzQCn

SECTION 4: BREXIT AND THE NORTHERN IRELAND PROTOCOL

Immigration

GB	Reformed immigration system Free movement with the European Economic Area EA and Switzerland (EEA) ended on 31 December 2020. EEA citizens and their family members who are not eligible to obtain Settled or Pre-Settled Status under the EU Settlement Scheme must obtain the right to live and work in the UK under the UK's domestic immigration system. Irish citizens can continue to freely enter, live and work in the UK. Changes to economic migration routes under the domestic immigration system include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ Expansion of the occupations and eligibility criteria covered under Skilled Worker route, which is the main immigration route for workers who have a job offer from an approved employer sponsor. Skilled Worker visa: Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) Introduction of the Global Business Mobility routes for Senior or Specialist Workers or Graduate Trainees, which replace previous arrangements for Intra-Company Transferees. Senior or Specialist Worker visa (Global Business Mobility): Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) Graduate Trainee visa (Global Business Mobility): Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ Reformed provisions, also under the Global Business Mobility routes, for UK Expansion Workers, Service Suppliers under international trade agreements and Secondment Workers being transferred to the UK due to a high value contract or investment. UK Expansion Worker visa (Global Business Mobility): Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) Service Supplier visa (Global Business Mobility): Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) Secondment Worker visa (Global Business Mobility): Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ A new single route for International Sportspersons, replacing separate settlement and temporary work routes. International Sportsperson visa: Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ A new settlement route for British Nationals (Overseas). British National (Overseas) visa: Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ A new Graduate route for international students graduating from UK universities. Graduate visa: Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ A new High Potential Individual route for recent graduates of recognised top international universities. High Potential Individual (HPI) visa: Overview - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) <ul style="list-style-type: none">▶ From 22 August 2022, a new Scale-up visa for workers joining an eligible scale-up business in the UK. Points based system welcomes highly skilled graduates to the UK - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk)
-----------	---

	Statement of changes to the Immigration Rules: HC 1118, 15 March 2022 - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk)
NI	Given NI's unique position, it is likely that equally unique issues will arise. Organisations based in the Republic of Ireland with specialist EEA workers historically could simply drive across the border and carry out work in NI. Now however businesses need to think of the immigration and right to work implications of this cross-border work for non-Irish EEA nationals. As there is no regional salary, the Global Business Mobility route for Senior or Specialist Workers can be prohibitive as there is a minimum salary level of £42,400. The Skilled Worker route, while more flexible in terms of salary and skill level, requires the candidate to meet an English language requirement which may be either too difficult or too time-consuming to complete if timings are tight. Without a physical border force to check documents, businesses may be tempted to take a risk, or some may not even consider the requirements. However, the penalties for illegal working in the UK are quite severe. Some options exist under the Frontier Worker Scheme, the EU Settlement Scheme (including late applications) and certain business activities are permitted under the Standard Visitor or Permitted Paid Engagement Visitor routes.
ROI	There is agreement under Article 3 of the Protocol on Northern Ireland and Ireland that the UK and Ireland 'may continue to make arrangements between themselves relating to the movement of persons between their territories'. Accordingly, various arrangements have been implemented in relation to the free movement of individuals between Ireland and the UK which are summarised below. Further detail can be found here. Common Travel Area In response to Brexit, the Government of Ireland and the UK signed a Memorandum of Understanding, reaffirming their commitment to maintaining the Common Travel Area in all circumstances. Accordingly, the Irish legislature enacted the Withdrawal of the United Kingdom from the European Union (Consequential Provisions) Act 2020 (the Act). There is provision within the Act to maintain the integrity and operation of the CTA and to ensure that the rights associated with the CTA continue. Therefore, after 1 January 2021 Irish citizens and British citizens will continue to have the same reciprocal rights associated with the CTA. These include the right to work, study and vote, and access to social welfare benefits and health services. Irish and British citizens will be able to continue to travel freely within the CTA without seeking immigration permission from the authorities. There is agreement under Article 3 of the Protocol on Northern Ireland and Ireland that the UK and Ireland 'may continue to make arrangements between themselves relating to the movement of persons between their territories'. It further states that the UK shall ensure that the CTA and the rights and privileges associated with it can continue to apply without affecting the obligations of Ireland under Union law. British citizens sponsoring non-EEA national family member(s) British citizens no longer have an automatic entitlement to have their non-EEA family member or dependent reside with them in Ireland. However, the Department of Justice has published the Scheme in relation to Non-EEA Family Members of UK Citizens intending to reside in the State (the Scheme). Under the Scheme a British citizen will be permitted to sponsor an application

for permission for a specified non-EEA national family member(s) or dependent to reside with them in Ireland.

Under the Scheme, arrangements have been put in place by the Irish Government for non-EEA nationals who are a family member or dependent of a British citizen who as of 31 December 2020 hold a valid Irish Residence Permit (IRP) Card. These individuals will continue to hold the same residence rights to live, work or study in Ireland. They will simply be required to exchange their current valid IRP Card for a new one. This card exchange programme is administered by the Immigration Service Delivery of the Department of Justice and is open until 30 June 2022.

EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement (TCA)

GB	Under the EU–UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement (TCA), there is a general UK-wide commitment to keep up with EU levels of employment protection in broad terms as part of the provisions relating to a Level Playing Field for Open and Fair Competition. The TCA allows one party to impose trade sanctions against the other if there has been 'significant divergence' in levels of labour protection that has caused a 'material impact' on trade. https://bit.ly/3vc6mR5
NI	Article 2 of the Northern Ireland Protocol provides that there should be no diminution of the rights, safeguards and equality of opportunity provisions set out in the Good Friday Agreement as a result of the UK leaving the EU. This provides important equality and anti-discrimination protection for individuals in Northern Ireland, including the Good Friday Agreement rights to freedom and expression of religion and the right to equal opportunity in all social and economic activity, regardless of class, creed, disability, gender or ethnicity. As certain EU Directives underpin the Good Friday Agreement rights, these are also protected by Article 2. The 6 anti-discrimination directives in Annex 1 of Article 2 are set out below. Proposed amendments to the Northern Ireland Protocol are expected imminently in relation to the movement of goods between Great Britain and Northern Ireland – employment and equality changes are not expected.
[1]	Directive 2004/113 implementing the principle of equal treatment between men and women in the access to and supply of goods and services
[2]	Directive 2006/54 on the implementation of the principle of equal opportunities and equal treatment of men and women in matters of employment and occupation
[3]	Directive 2000/43 implementing the principle of equal treatment between persons irrespective of racial or ethnic origin
[4]	Directive 2000/78 establishing a general framework for equal treatment in employment and occupation
[5]	Directive 2010/41 on the application of the principle of equal treatment between men and women engaged in an activity in a self-employed capacity
[6]	Directive 79/7 on the progressive implementation of principle of equal treatment for men and women in matters of Social Security
ROI	EU derived employment rights continue to apply in the Republic of Ireland.
